

I Feel You

I feel like a winged angel as I fight to overcome my darkness. I feel you my darling, I feel you...

Today I have to overcome my crippling fears like never before. I know you are climbing these steps with me, urging me on, protecting me and whispering words of love that fill my wings as I glide upwards. I know you are with me. I cannot face this without you.

You've held me so close throughout my fears and as my body shook you soothed me and calmed me with your gentle love. You know me so well, you know my weakest points and you know how overwhelmed I become in these times...yet you hold onto me and love me.

When we spoke, lying together in that darkened room, your loving words fed me and nourished me. I knew I could go on. I knew I'd be ok. I knew you were always with me as I start this terrifying journey. They still live within me and I shall hold onto them tightly, forevermore.

Your loving words left an imprint etched deep into my soul. An image that holds me in the days we spend apart. I feel your thoughts, lightly touching my body, lighting those tiny little fires that burn with their most intimate love. I swim in the soft waves of your breath as though I am still lying in your arms. My heart aches to feel your arms around me again...soon my darling, soon.
